The Natural Animal Centre (NAC) was founded by Ross and Heather Simpson in 1997, the centre has grown from its original base in Sussex, England to two beautiful centres in Wales as well as 2 game reserves abroad.

NAC 1 (our main centre) is home to our courses and the Natural Animal Veterinary Centre, while accomodation and longer term rehabilitation facilities are provided at NAC 2 - a 10 minute drive away.

The NAC has expanded internationally and we have 2 reserves in southern africa and we are currently working on one in the Himalayas, India for the future. For more information on these reserves and the work of the Wild Equid Protection Trust visit www.W-E-P-T.org

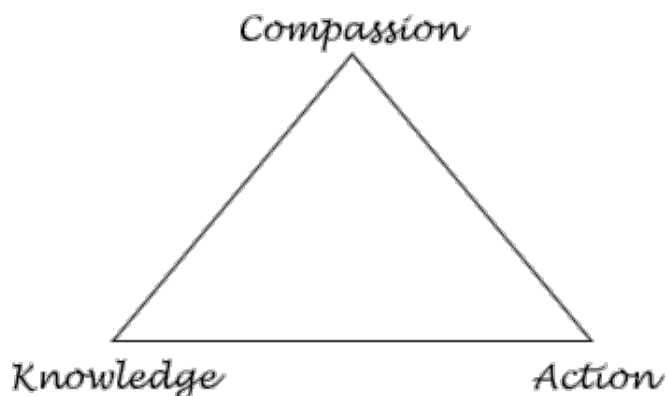

Compassion through science and ethical action.....

Our mission statement:

positively influencing the wellbeing of animals worldwide

Compassionate understanding of animals is always our main goal and we help people develop this awareness through gaining a sound base of scientific knowledge which creates oppurtunities for positive choices to be made regarding actions to be taken with their animals

Here at the NAC we act as a role model by showing compassionate alternatives available in management such as our Barn Management System for horses and pigs and the manmade rabbit warren.

Philosophy

The NAC is a living embodiment of the philosophies we promote. A visit here will reveal dogs and rabbits, horses and pigs which mix peacefully. Positive reinforcement and successfully applied scientific animal behaviour principles means you can acieve your dreams with your animals.

Course Outline

All courses are held at the Natural Animal Centre and comprise a mixture of animal behaviour theory and practical case studies. Although learning the theory of behaviour is obviously important, the course is structured so that there is plenty of opportunity for students to learn how to use the Bach Flower Remedies practically in treating animals that have emotional problems.

Students are also expected to study at home between the Stages and comprehensive recommended reading lists are provided.

One of the advantages of holding the course at the Centre is the opportunity students have to enjoy all the animals that live with us. Currently, we have dogs, cats, horses, pigs, sheep, chickens, turkeys, ducks, rabbits and tortoises all living in a harmonious and peaceful setting. We also incorporate real animals into the course itself so that practitioners can learn to experience consultations with live animals present.

Course Accreditation

The course is accredited as a Level 3 practitioner course by the Dr Edward Bach Foundation in Oxfordshire. Successful completion entitles the student to apply to join the Bach Foundation International Register of Practitioners.

All students must obtain Level 2 Certification before attending the Stage One Animal course. For more information with respect to this requirement, see www.bachcentre.com/found/training.htm

Accommodation

For the duration of the courses, students may stay at our second centre NAC 2 at a cost of £15 per night. Accommodation is limited and bookings are made on a first come first basis.

Structure of course

Stage 1

The course comprises a two-day introduction to the behaviour of dogs, cats and horses. You will learn about normal behaviour in these animals and how to identify abnormal behaviours, an essential part of learning how to select appropriate remedies.

Stage 2

This is a three-day follow-on course from Stage 1 and more advanced concepts in the same three species will be studied. In addition, the student will be introduced to other pet animals such as rabbits, birds and tortoises. Stage 2 also includes practical sessions on animal consultations.

Stage 3

This is a 4-day section and comprises the following:

- Day 1 and Day 2 - further study of animals and introduction to treating farm animals such as sheep and pigs
- Day 3 - Individual consultation assessments
- Day 4 - Written assessment

The Written Assessment is double marked by both Heather Simpson and Stefan Ball at the Bach Centre.

Prepared Case Studies

Once you have passed Stage 3, then case studies (on dogs, cats and a variety of prey animals) will be sent to you for preparation at home. You have three months to write up the studies and return them to the Natural Animal Centre for marking by Heather Simpson.

Field Case Study

On successful completion of the Prepared Case Studies, you progress towards accreditation by treating the animal of a client in the field over a period of 3 months. It is a requirement of the course that the first consultation with the client and animal is videoed and you will also be asked to write up progress reports as the treatment develops over the months.

On passing the Field Study you are entitled to apply to register as a qualified Animal Practitioner with the Bach Centre.

Course dates for 2010

- Stage 1 7/8th July
- Stage 2 9/10/11th July*
- Stage 3 11th/12th/13th/14th Nov

*Please note that Stage 1 and Stage 2 are run back-to-back to allow overseas students the opportunity to minimise their travel expenses. Students may register for Stage 1 or Stage 2 only as appropriate.

Course Fees

If you are already a registered human BFR Practitioner, then you receive a 20% discount overall on the course fee. Fees are payable as you register for each Stage.

Course	Non-Human Practitioner Rate	Human Practitioner Rate with 20% discount	Accommodation at NAC 2
Stage 1	£230	£185	£30
Stage 2	£335	£270	£60
Stage 3	£480	£380	£75

Time for completing the Course

Currently, the Bach Centre has imposed no deadline on completion of the three-stage course. This means that students can pace both their financial and study commitments as they personally wish. However, once you begin Stage 3, you must complete it within a year.

However, if it is your serious intention to treat animals with the Remedies, then the sooner you become qualified the better. One of the objectives in offering the course is to encourage practitioners to attain a recognisable, uniform standard of animal knowledge which will help veterinary surgeons refer on cases to practitioners with confidence.

Continuing Professional Development (CPD)

New research on the theory of animal behaviour is being published all the time and in order to keep Animal Practitioners up-to-date as well as to afford them the opportunity to meet and share experiences with fellow practitioners, a CPD conference is held once a year at the Natural Animal Centre. Whilst attendance at the conference is not mandatory, it is highly recommended.

The next conference will take place 26th/27th/28th March 2010. Please note early booking is recommended as places are limited.
