Bach Flower Remedy Animal Conference

This seminar style conference consists of a series of 4 lectures and workshop sessions by Heather Simpson, teacher of the: Bach Flower Remedy Animal Practitioner Accreditation. The conference is in Boston, Ma in association with Nelsons (the distributors of the remedies). The sessions will be spread over 2 days so you have the option to attend as many sessions as you would like.

Heather is a partner in the Natural Animal Centre in the UK where she teaches the only Dr Edward Bach accredited course for Animal Practitioners in the world.

With her background in animal behaviour, Heather highlights the importance of making the correct assessments of animals with regards to their emotional state; and in so doing choosing the perfect remedy.

The seminar is open to all who are interested in using the remedies in animals & will be held at Holiday Inn Tewksbury, 4 Highwood Drive, Tewksbury, MA 01876

Day 1 session 1 Opening and welcome

An introduction to working with animals and the Bach Flower Remedies

Dr Bach said that the Remedy system was simple - so why do we need more education on helping animals? An introduction to understanding how emotions function in animals and why appreciation of their basic needs is the starting point for BFR selection. An introduction to some of the commonest BFR helpful to animals.

Break for lunch

Day 1 session 2

Using the Bach Flower Remedies practically in animals

A highly practical overview of administering the remedies to all animals, including wild animals: when to treat, how much to give and how to do it safely. When do you need veterinarian support or intervention?

Day 2 session 1

Understanding suppression of emotions by animals

Not all animals display their true feelings all of the time. This session provides an insight into the behavioural options available to animals when emotionally upset. Case studies and choosing BFR in such situations.

Break for lunch

Day 2 session 2

Depression in animals and the Bach Flower Remedies

What is depression and how to recognise it in animals. Choosing appropriate BFR for this condition. Case studies and helping the animal move on.
